ABSTRACT

This guide lists the needs of New Mexico schools and agencies in the areas of special education, Indian education, and bilingual and multicultural education. Following the state department of education vision statement and the state board of education policy framework, the guide describes the state's recreational opportunities and colorful history, and provides information on how to obtain a visitor's guide and on opportunities for professional growth. Name, address, phone number, SpecialNet address, and contact person are given for each of the state's 89 school districts. Local education agencies, regional center cooperatives, and state-supported educational programs are listed. The section on the Office of Bilingual-Multicultural Education provides a brief description of the program and its requirements, and lists all districts that implement bilingual and multicultural education. The state's Office of Indian Education is described, including mission statement, the office's responsibilities, and a list of full- and part-time positions available in Indian education. A section on the Special Education Office discusses its responsibilities and lists projected needs for special education teachers and personnel for 1995-96 by district. Includes information and application procedures for professional licensure in New Mexico, a map of school districts, and a licensure application form. (TD)

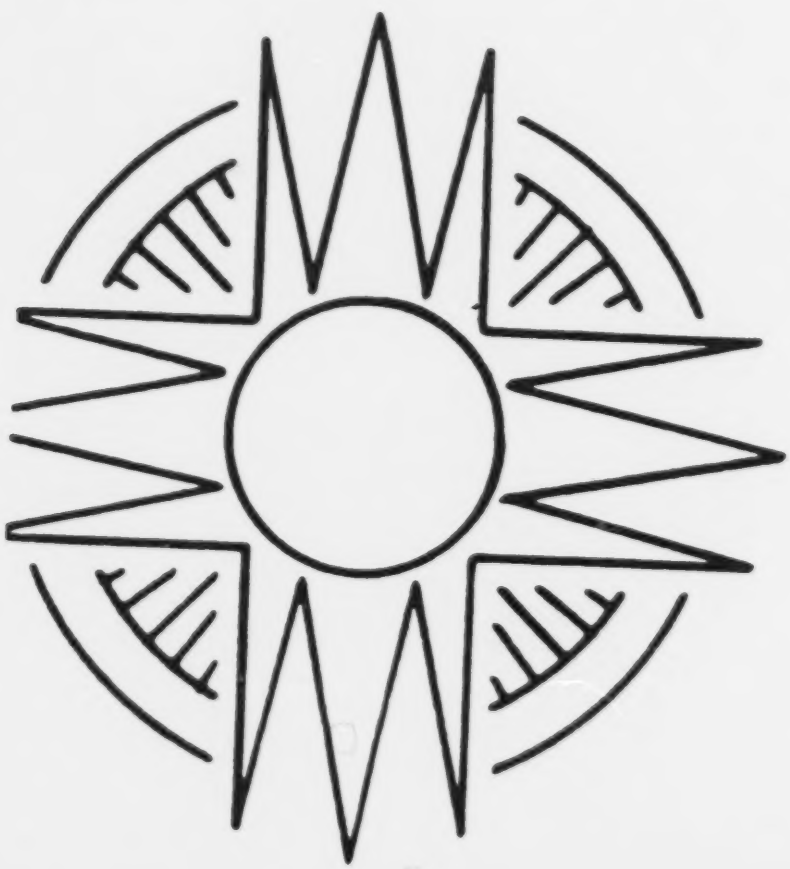
WELCOME – BIENVENIDOS

Thank you for your interest in employment possibilities in the State of New Mexico. The New Mexico State Department of Education (NMSDE) is pleased to make available, "A Guide for Personnel Needed to Serve the Students of New Mexico" which lists the needs of New Mexico schools and agencies providing special education, related services, Indian education and bilingual and multicultural education.

New Mexico's sunny climate, cultural diversity, scenic beauty and recreational opportunities have long attracted visitors to our state. Many return to become residents.

New Mexico has 89 public school districts. Each district is unique in regard to their hiring procedures and one must apply directly to the district for employment. Within this publication is the title of contact persons at the individual public school district or agency.



THE NEW MEXICO STATE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION VISION STATEMENT

The New Mexico State Department of Education believes the education of all students must become the mission for all New Mexicans. We believe education must challenge all students to reach their potential.

THE NEW MEXICO STATE BOARD OF EDUCATION CITE POLICY FRAMEWORK

The New Mexico State Board of Education, through its constitutional duties and responsibilities, has communicated its future direction within a visionary document called Consolidating Initiatives for Tomorrow's Education (CITE) - A Student Centered Policy Framework for System-wide Educational Change in New Mexico. The CITE Policy Framework identifies the following eight goals:

1. Involve all New Mexicans in a shared responsibility for education
2. Provide opportunities which will enable all students to learn
3. Establish high standards and high expectations to enable students to acquire the personal qualities, values, skills, and knowledge necessary to become productive citizens in a multiethnic democratic society
4. Seek and reward excellence in teachers and other school personnel
5. Advocate for and seek adequate resources to support maximum student learning
6. Organize resources for system-wide change to prepare students for the future
7. Promote, exemplify, and implement decision making at the appropriate level
8. Assure to the public the integrity of the educational process through program and financial accountability

RECREATION

New Mexico's sunny climate, cultural diversity, scenic beauty and recreational opportunities have long attracted visitors to our state. Many return to become permanent residents. New Mexico has six national forests within its borders which offer the outdoor enthusiast over 14,000 square miles of mountains, canyons and deserts ideal for camping, hiking, backpacking and climbing. Panning for gold is allowed on three rivers in the state. New Mexico is a winter playground for downhill and cross-country skiing. There are tremendous opportunities for fishing, boating and waterskiing on the state's many lakes and reservoirs. Native American ceremonial dances, and arts and crafts can be enjoyed throughout the year at the various pueblos and reservations and in April at the Gathering of the Nations. Cinco de Mayo fiestas are enjoyed throughout the state as well as the Fiesta de Santa Fe with the burning of Zozobra (old man gloom) in September. Albuquerque hosts the International Balloon Fiesta every October when the sky is filled with bright colorful balloons from over 50 different countries. For the amateur archaeologist, New Mexico has preserved many sites and monuments which are open to the public all year.

A distinctive visitor's guide can be obtained from the Department of Tourism at (800) 545-2040 or at P.O. Box 2003, Santa Fe, New Mexico 87503.

NEW MEXICO HISTORY

Nowhere in America does the past so color the present as in New Mexico. Through the centuries, four distinct cultures--American Indian, Hispanic American, African American and Anglo American--have made New Mexico their home. Indian farmers and artisans, Spanish colonists and governors, Anglo traders and trappers, African merchants and settlers walked the mountainous terrain. These people left their mark on New Mexico through customs and celebrations, food, architecture, art and apparel. New Mexico today reflects a remembrance of this history.

PROFESSIONAL GROWTH

New Mexico has five state universities that offer undergraduate and graduate degrees in special education, allowing many options for study within multicultural educational settings. They are complete and innovative universities which allow students a full range of traditional and non-traditional educational experiences and coursework. Because of their outstanding libraries, special institutes and ongoing activities, the universities provide students with cultural awareness that cannot be matched anywhere else in the nation.

New Mexico also offers opportunities to participate in several bold educational initiatives at both a state and local level. New Mexico is one of several participating states in the NASBE Consortium on Inclusive Schooling Practices which is supporting the implementation of our Administrative Policy on Full Inclusion. Project Access is exploring new ways to recruit and train related service personnel. Through our Circle of Life transition grant, in collaboration with DVR, unique community partnerships have been formed for the transition of students from school to community. Participation from the field is also encouraged on our many standing and ad hoc committees.

Bilingual-Multicultural Education Programs:

The bilingual-multicultural curriculum in each school shall be based upon assessment of educational needs in that school.

Districts should implement bilingual-multicultural programs for students with diverse backgrounds and especially for students for whom English is their second language.

Parents shall be informed in writing when students are placed in a bilingual education program. Parental wishes regarding such placement shall be honored.

The program shall provide equal educational opportunities by:

a. Providing a well defined English language development program (English as a second language, English as a second language oriented language arts) with ongoing evaluation of English language proficiency using locally developed criteria and the State Department of Education prescribed evaluation format.

b. Delivering core area content in the home language as dictated by needs assessment.

c. Including New Mexico cultures in the content areas in selected aspects of the curriculum.

d. Providing for linguistic, cultural and conceptual development in the home language as needed.

To be approved, a Spanish/English bilingual/multicultural program shall employ one of the following staffing patterns:

a. A certified bilingual teacher with a bilingual education endorsement. This teacher can function in a self-contained classroom or as a special teacher who serves students from other classrooms.

b. A combination of a certified bilingual teacher with a bilingual education endorsement and one or more English monolingual teachers working as a teaching team. Qualified educational assistants also may form a part of this type of staffing, provided that aides are given a planned program of training and their performance is monitored by an endorsed bilingual teacher.

c. A certified bilingual teacher with bilingual education endorsement who works with classroom teachers and qualified educational assistants in schools throughtout the district. Educational assistants shall be given a planned program of training and their performance shall be monitored by the endorsed bilingual teacher.

Additionally a parent advisory committee from the district shall review the goals and priorities of the bilingual education plan and make recommendations to the local board of education.

OFFICE OF BILINGUAL AND MULTICULTURAL EDUCATION

The primary function of the bilingual education office is to implement the provisions of the State Bilingual Multicultural Act and Title VII, ESEA. The office makes available bilingual application forms and procedures to all school districts and provides technical assistance to school districts in designing and implementing bilingual programs. The office also reviews all applications received by the New Mexico State Department of Education and conducts onsite program reviews of one-third of the districts annually. Recommendation for approval for funding purposes under the Act is made by the office to those programs that are in compliance with Standards and Statute.

The staff providing Title VII, ESEA services assist local schools to develop and implement programs which meet federal criteria, coordinate training and evaluation needs with universities and carry out a wide range of technical assistance activities in the state. Staff monitor and report the implementation of programs, conduct seminars and institutes pertaining to bilingual education, respond to inquiries on the law and the implementing regulations and maintain contact with the U.S. Department of Education and other international education entities. The office also collects and publishes data and information on limited English proficient students in the public schools in the state.
